

“ Whenever I leave an APLA session, I feel refreshed and ready to return to campus. I am now on a path towards principalship. I thoroughly enjoy the experiences and will apply all that I’ve learned in my position. ”

Assistant Principal Leadership Academy

YOUR ROLE as an effective instructional leader is the most vital variable in improving teaching and learning. Why? Because your influence can lead to a significant increase in student achievement. In fact, it is a commonly held belief that it is impossible to have a high-performing school without an effective leader.

As a leader, you must always pursue the best possible professional knowledge, strategies and ideas to maximize your skills to successfully address the many challenges and goals that you will invariably face. When, where and how can you best prepare to meet these high expectations?
